The Legal 500

Criminal Law

Our criminal law team comprises specialist legal advisors and advocates who are experienced in representing clients accused of a range of serious criminal offences.

We provide affordable and pragmatic advice with a focus on efficiency and speed to ensure matters are moved along as quickly as possible with the police and wider authorities. Where an expeditious disposal of matters is not possible, our advocates are experienced and respected courtroom lawyers who represent clients throughout the criminal justice process up to and including trial and (if necessary) appeal. Our relatively large team allows us to provide our clients with continuity of representation, stability and scale when needed. At an early stage in the case clients will meet with an assigned legal advisor and advocate and they will become the permanent core defence team until the conclusion of the case.

Civil and Family Law

Our family lawyers work in conjunction with our property, litigation and private client experts to assist individuals, families and those who advise on planning and structuring their affairs, to mitigate those financial risks that relationship divisions can cause.

We advise on a range of issues including pre-nuptial, post-nuptial and cohabitation agreements; if relationship breakdown cannot be avoided, we offer sensitive and comprehensive advice on separation, divorce, civil partnership dissolution, in particular on the financial and children issues that can arise, and regularly advise on cross border family disputes.

Our civil litigation team covers an extensive range of legal disputes arising between two or more parties in respect of civil matters, including property and building disputes, intellectual property rights and breaches of contract, professional negligence, injunctions, consumer rights and debt.

Insurance and Personal Injury

Our insurance and personal injury team is experienced in handling the full range of personal injury claims, from large scale and complex catastrophic injury to small liability claims.

We also have expertise in advising and acting for a range of interests in insurance and insurance-related disputes and our experience includes advising and acting for insurers on claim disputes, policy drafting and interpretation, advising companies, directors and officers (D&O) on complex D&O insurance issues and general insurance matters relating to professional indemnity.

Dispute Resolution and Litigation offshore

While the offshore centres of Bermuda, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands, Guernsey and Jersey have much in common there are key differences in the form that contentious work takes.

At a high level, the workload is similar: principally high-value, cross-border commercial or investment-related litigation. This includes trust disputes, international insolvencies and shareholder disputes. Many of these are substantively litigated in the relevant jurisdiction or are adjuncts to major onshore or other offshore litigation.

Points of difference

Some broad points of difference can however be drawn between the jurisdictions. For example, there tends to be more trusts dispute work in Guernsey and Jersey, more institutional (fund and capital markets) litigation in Cayman and more private shareholder and investment disputes in the BVI and more fund and insurance litigation in Bermuda.

The geographical sources of instruction also have a bearing. Guernsey and Jersey have close ties to the UK and Europe, BVI has long-standing connections to Asia and the Russia/CIS region and Cayman and Bermuda hold stronger links to the US.

A common strand in all five jurisdictions, however, is that the litigation is international in scope.

Local knowledge

In material aspects, offshore litigation may look and feel similar to litigation in England and the onshore Commonwealth jurisdictions, but there are vital differences of substance, nuance, policy and spirit. The role of a good offshore lawyer is to be immersed in and understand these local characteristics so that they can make them work to their clients' advantage.

Our lawyers have extensive knowledge of how our jurisdictions operate, both in the context of the offshore world and internationally.

“They have a very international perspective in their business and are well connected in the major economies and finance centres.”
